Program Delivery Methods

Fall 2022

As you prepare to start classes this semester, please see your program in the list on the following page to find out how your programs will be delivered. Courses are delivered using the following formats:

Format	Definition You'll See in Your Course Outline	What This Means
On-campus	Course is delivered in person through scheduled synchronous* teaching.	Your course runs on a specific date and time, and your professor engages with you and your classmates in real time.
Online	Course is delivered remotely, with no in-person requirements . Course may be delivered through asynchronous teaching	Your professor will share learning resources and activities with you via our online learning platform, Moodle. Your professor will provide regular opportunities for you to ask questions and request clarification. You, your classmates, and your professor are not necessarily accessing the online course material at the same time.
Hybrid	Course combines scheduled in-person , synchronous* and unscheduled asynchronous teaching.	Often referred to as blended learning, hybrid courses include both real-time in-person learning with your professor and classmates and online learning activities.
HyFlex	Course includes both synchronous* and asynchronous learning, both in-person and virtually, and you can move between both components seamlessly.	Hyflex and Flex options enable students to continue to learn even when they are not able to be present in class. Both options allow students to join classes via video-conferencing; however, HyFlex courses also include asynchronous learning options. To enhance the learning and career readiness through social relationships and professional practice, we recommend that students in HyFlex and Flex programs attend classes in-person as much as possible. Effective September 1, 2022: International students in HyFlex/Flex programs should proceed with plans to relocate to Sudbury, Ontario, upon receipt of their study permit acceptance as in-class learning is a requirement to be in compliance with the Post-Graduation Work Permit (PGWP) eligibility requirements. Failure to meet this requirement may impact IRCC's decision on your future PGWP application.
Flex	Course is delivered through scheduled synchronous* teaching at a specific date and time that you can access in real time in person, or via web conferencing.	International students should contact the International Department if they have any questions: InternationalAdvising@cambriancollege.ca

* Synchronous Teaching and Learning: A faculty member (your professor) is engaged with you and your classmates teaching and learning at the same time (in real-time). Your courses are scheduled at a pre-determined day and time on your timetable.

 Asynchronous Teaching and Learning: Your professor shares learning resources and activities with you and your classmates in a flexible way, typically via our online learning platform – Moodle. Your professor confirms the regular times and channels for you to ask questions and request clarification. You, your classmates, and your professor are not necessarily accessing the online course material at the same time.

- ✓ A checkmark in the Flexible Learning column means your program does not include mandatory on-campus learning requirements. Your courses may be delivered in HyFlex, Flex, and asynchronous delivery mode. Please see above for additional information about these types of learning.
- ✓ A checkmark in the On-campus Learning column means your program contains on campus learning requirements. You will need to be prepared to be learning in person and on campus. However, you may not have to be on campus for every one of your courses. You may still have some individual courses delivered in Flex, Hybrid, or Online formats. Please see above for additional information about these types of learning.
- ✓ A checkmark in the Placement/Co-op column means your program has a planned placement and/or co-op this spring. In some cases, the co-op is optional. Please check with your program coordinator if you have any questions about your placement or co-op.

International students who are enrolled in a program with a placement/co-op component must have a valid co-op/intern work permit to complete their program. It is highly recommended students indicate in their study permit application their need for a co-op/intern work permit. Should students require further assistance on this procedure, they are advised to contact internationaladvising@CambrianCollege.ca.

Your timetable will provide additional clarification regarding how your class is being offered:

- On-campus courses – Room Number indicated for the day and time your class meets in person
- Online courses – No on campus requirements; online courses are listed at the top of your timetable
- Flexible courses – FLEX and Room Number for the day and time your class meets if you choose to be on campus
- Hybrid – The online components are listed at the top of your timetable; Room Number for the day and time your class meets in person on campus.
