Program Delivery Methods

2023-24

As you prepare to start classes this semester, please see your program in the list on the following page to find out how your program will be delivered. Programs are delivered using the following formats:

Format	Definition	What This Means
On-campus	Program is delivered in person through scheduled synchronous <sup>1</sup> teaching.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Your courses run on a specific date and time, and your professor engages with you and your classmates on campus, in person, and in real time.</li> </ul>
Flex	Program is delivered through scheduled synchronous <sup>1</sup> teaching at a specific date and time that you can access in real time in person, or via web conferencing.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Online (HyFlex) and Flex options enable you to continue to learn even when you are not able to be present in class.</li> <li>Online (HyFlex) programs also include asynchronous learning options.</li> <li>To enhance the learning and career readiness through social relationships and professional practice, we recommend you attend classes in-person as much as possible.</li> </ul>
Online (HyFlex)	Program includes both synchronous <sup>1</sup> and asynchronous <sup>2</sup> learning, both in-person and virtually, and you can move between both components seamlessly.	Effective August 25, 2022: International students who are awaiting a decision on their study permit and are planning to register in Online (HyFlex)/Flex programs may begin or continue their studies remotely from their home country as per the rules set out by IRCC. For further information on the latest IRCC announcement and how it impacts your registration in the upcoming semester, please refer to Cambrian's Temporary Remote Learning Conditions document. If you still require further assistance or clarification, please email the International Department at internationaladvising@cambriancollege.ca
Online	Program includes asynchronous <sup>2</sup> learning. There are no in-person requirements. Your professor will share learning resources and activities with you via our online learning platform, Moodle.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Your professor will provide regular opportunities for you to ask questions and request clarification.</li> <li>You, your classmates, and your professor are not necessarily accessing the online course material at the same time.</li> </ul>

<sup>1</sup>Synchronous Teaching and Learning: A faculty member (your professor) is engaged with you and your classmates teaching and learning at the same time (in real-time). Your courses are scheduled at a pre-determined day and time on your timetable.

<sup>2</sup>Asynchronous Teaching and Learning: Your professor shares learning resources and activities with you and your classmates in a flexible way, typically via our online learning platform – Moodle. Your professor confirms the regular times and channels for you to ask questions and request clarification. You, your classmates, and your professor are not necessarily accessing the online course material at the same time.

 Co-op/Placement/Internship/Capstone: In programs where there are placement/co-op/internship requirements, students must be prepared to complete these requirements in-person. Cambrian has a variety of placement partners located locally, provincially, and nationally. In some programs, given the limited number of local placement opportunities, students may have to complete their placement requirements with a placement partner in another city or in another province. Please note that all related clinical placement expenses such as travel, parking, and accommodation are the responsibility of the student.
